If they click into that session, they see the pop up you see below.

This same message is displayed on the screen in yellow if they close the pop up and choose to register for the waitlist.

We're excited you've chosen a START date, but unfortunately this one is full. While you can sign up for the wait list for this event, please also go back and choose another START date as your back-up. If space becomes available, we'll automatically transfer you to this date and cancel your back-up date.
